NICK GOLDSCHMIDT

Winemaker, Owner

Born in New Zealand, educated in New Zealand and Australia, and living in Sonoma County, Nick Goldschmidt is truly an international winemaker. Nick makes wine in 6 countries, owns vineyards in 3 and consults for wineries across the globe. He's considered a "local legend" by his winemaking peers in Sonoma County.

In 1990, he and his wife Yolyn settled down in Healdsburg, CA. At 27 years old, he was named the winemaker for Simi Winery. He went on to manage the world-wide winemaking for Allied Domecq and Beam Wine Estates before deciding to go out on his own in 2008 with Goldschmidt Vineyards. The goal of the company was to produce fine wines utilizing site specific winemaking from great vineyards around the world. Having produced world-class wines from around the globe, Nick knew exactly which vineyard sites he would choose to work with. He is very passionate about the earth and farming in a conservative way to leave the land in a better place. Those who have had the pleasure of having a glass of wine with him know that he is a hell of a lot of fun!
